

Food Innovation

Do you work and experiment in the food sector? Join up with a partner in agriculture and develop a truly sustainable innovation that might have a global impact on the food ecosystem! The EcoInn consortium would like to see Danube Region countries among the winners of the “Innovation Prizes”, worth 10,000 Euro, awarded by the European Institute of Food Innovation and Technology (EIT).

Have a look at EcoInn Virtual Lab entries; you might find a partner offering the knowledge, material or technology to let your idea or prototype mature to a marketable product.

The call opens 1Apr 2019. For more information see

<https://www.eitfood.eu/programmes/innovationprizes>

The proposed products or services must align with one or more of EIT Food’s strategic objectives:

- Making the food system better for people’s health
- Making the food system better for the environment
- Making the food system more trusted and transparent